

Statement and Conclusions

Conclusion is the last part of something, result or its end. It means a fact that can be truly inferred from the contents of a given sentence or passage.

In this topic statement is given and under this statement two or three conclusions are given. It is expected from you to check that result about statement lies in the conclusion or not.

In this type of questions the most important is to understand the way in which conclusions are given. Some conclusions are so simple that we can solve them at the first look whereas some are so complex that they need special observation.

Any conclusion is acceptable if information of the statement is related to it agree with argument etc.

Points to Remember to findout any conclusion

- (1) Conclusion is a result that have to be confirmed.
- (2) Conclusion must be related to the statement information.
- (3) It always be related, inbuilt and connected to given data.
- (4) Never use any assumptions for the conclusion.
- (5) A perfect conclusion is based on fact, given statement and other hidden information.

Solved Examples

1. Statement:

The distance of 900 km by road between Bombay and Jafra will be reduced to 280 km by sea. This will lead to a saving of Rs. 7.92 crore per annum on fuel.

Conclusions:

- (i) Transportation by sea is cheaper than that of road.
- (ii) Fuel must be saved to the greatest extent.
- (a) If only conclusion I follows.
- (b) If only conclusion II follows.
- (c) If either I or II follows.
- (d) If neither I nor II follows.

Sol. (b); If only conclusion II follows.

According to the statement the distance is reduced between two cities and we are confirmed by statement that the savings on the fuel but we doesn't confirmed that it is cheaper than that by road. So first conclusion does not follow.

2. Statement:
